Latest technology like NVIDIA® ION™ with Intel® Atom™ processor grants you true HD (1080p) experience of movies, latest PC games, web browsing, chatting and VOIP – all ready to enjoy with your friends and family on your TV display in the living room. At offices, the slim design keeps your desk tidy without annoying cases you bump your knee on under the table. It's invisible but gives you the reliable performance you need for any office application. The fanless concept makes the Prestigio ION slim PC almost inaudible.
The Prestigio ION Super Slim 525 comes in three different configurations with Microsoft® Windows® 7 Home Premium or the brand new Prestigio Suite 2010 on Kubuntu, which was especially designed for this model.

Prestigio and Canonical Ltd., the commercial sponsor of Ubuntu, present Prestigio Suite 2010 on Kubuntu. The one-step-installation suite combines the operating system Kubuntu and various applications such as OpenOffice, more than 70 optional widgets, web applications (e.g. Google Finance, Skype, BBC weather, Firefox, YouTube Video-Hosting) and media applications (for slide shows, video/music playback, FBReader and a complete media center XBMC). The Prestigio Suite 2010 on Kubuntu is the optional OS on Prestigio PCs, notebooks, netbooks and nettops and is ready for download at suite.prestigio.com and prestigioplaza.com.

Kubuntu is an official derivative of the Ubuntu operating system using the KDE graphical environment. It is part of the Ubuntu project and uses the same underlying system. “Kubuntu”, pronounced kubuntu/koo-BOON-too, means “towards humanity” in Bemba, and is derived from ubuntu (“humanity”). The K at the beginning represents the KDE desktop/applications which Kubuntu runs. By coincidence, Kubuntu also means “free” in Kirundi.
